2024 Grain Grading Schools

- Teaching elevator operators, producers, brokers and grain buyers about grain grades and how to use grain standards in marketing.
- Train participants to recognize various types of kernel damage and grade a representative sample.
- Introduce sampling methods and techniques pertaining to grain grading and/or grain quality.
- Encouragement to use practical, cost-effective procedures for grain inspection.
- After attending these schools, participants will assess grain quality and its market value more accurately.
- Education materials supplied at these schools includes a grain grading handbook with color pictures depicting grain damage, samples of grain with different types of damage and grading equipment.
